SINGLES' DAY

, cheap and some say addictive, online	are going through the roof in China. An electric tooth flosser caught Lu Ching's eye, 20%. He rarely visits athese days. Laptop, fitness equipment, cameras all bought with a few and many other items	s he admits he doesn't even need. Sometimes I do online, especia	lly when they are on sale. A lot of times I buy them without thinking too much and never touch t again after I open the packages; even if I don't like them, I don't the because of lazy. Singles' day started in the 1990s as a response to Valentine's Day, but gone far beyond people's relationship status.
Online giant Alibaba managed to turn what's now called Double 11 into a shopping spectacle that captivates most of China. Exactly at midnight on November 11
